Centrom aims at financial services with CityIQ

London, England, 31 October 2007

Centrom today announced a partnering agreement with CityIQ. Under the agreement the two companies will work together to exploit opportunities in the financial services market.

Mike Boseley, CEO of Centrom, said "This announcement reflects the strategic efforts being made by Centrom to develop further our Financial Services profile utilising our expertise of both document management and compliant environments.

We have always been impressed by CityIQ's industry knowledge, client list and commitment to service quality (www.cityiq.com). We believe that by combining Centrom's expertise with CityIQ's domain knowledge and implementation expertise we can further develop our position in the financial services marketplace."

Paul Wiltshire, Managing Director, CityIQ, said "We recognise the value of the services that Centrom provides and believe they are readily marketable to financial services clients. At CityIQ we understand our clients' needs, and we look forward to working alongside the Centrom team to deploy solutions that best meet those needs."

This agreement is effective immediately and the partnership has already started discussions on projects with several Institutions.
